POST SUMMARY

Having tutored new Chinese immigrants since 2008, and helped many of them succeeded in being accepted by top universities, I have recently rediscovered my passion for teaching and find myself missing my academic career of twenty years ago. I am keenly interested in teaching English as second language and being a consular and advisor for the international students.

My field includes, but not limited to: help the students prepare for the college entrance, edit their essays, help them to discover their talents, and make career plan for the future.
